

CANNON TO INVADE ENEMY'S COUNTRY

Will Speak for One of His Henchmen Out in Insurgent Iowa District.

MOVE IN INTEREST
OF CAPTAIN HULL

Fact That Senator Cummins Is to Appear in Same Town Forebodes Hot Controversy.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon is going to carry the war into Africa. He is going to lay down the lines, it is expected, on which the battles over nominations of members of Congress next spring and summer will be fought. The Speaker has been invited to speak next week at Knoxville, Iowa, in the Seventh Congressional district. This is a strong progressive country and is in Senator Cummins' home district. The Speaker has accepted the invitation.

The affair at which Mr. Cannon will speak will be a "home coming," and there will be many thousands of Iowans present, including a large number of those who don't like the new tariff law and who have small use for "Uncle Joe" and for Senator Nelson Wilmarth Aldrich. Now it is barely possible that the Speaker will go there and talk glittering generalities. But he will disappoint expectation if he does not talk in defense of the tariff bill, in support of Cannonism, in support of the House rules and in commendation of Senator Aldrich.

Cannon Is Invited.

Speaker Cannon has been invited out into the Iowa country and into a hot-bed of progressive sentiment through the efforts of Representative John A. T. Hull, chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, who represents the Seventh Iowa district in Congress. Captain Hull is an adherent of the Cannon organization. He has a great fight on his hands in his district and is encountering bitter opposition. Knoxville is the county seat of Marion county and is an anti-Hull and anti-Cannon county. Naturally, Captain Hull wants to make some converts there. It so happened that the committee in charge of the "home coming" festivities is friendly to Captain Hull, and it readily took up with his suggestion to get "Uncle Joe" to speak.

For the Speaker to make a speech in Iowa at this time with public feeling much wrought up on tariff and some other subjects, would of itself be entertaining enough, but the Knoxville folks have arranged for Senator Cummins to speak on the day following Mr. Cannon. Mr. Cannon is expected to endorse Representative Hull and urge his re-election. Senator Cummins is likely to take a stand against the re-election of men who stand for what Hull does, to oppose the tariff bill, to speak against the House rules and in general to arraign Cannonism and the regime of Senator Aldrich. All of which is expected to stir up no small measure of political excitement in Iowa and through the middle West.

Excitement Expected.

The lines are shaping up there, as in other parts of the country, for the Congressional contests of next year. The House insurgent Republicans are hoping that the next Congressional elections will mean a strong accession to their forces. If this proves to be the case, then the end of the Cannon regime in the House is likely and a change in the existing rules may be compelled. Under such circumstances Speaker Cannon is fighting for big stakes. It is possible he may not run for Speaker again, though this is not a certainty, and some of his close friends think he will. But at any rate, he does not want control of the House to pass from the hands of his friends. His forthcoming Iowa speech may have a large bearing on the outcome.
